VOLUME VII INDEX

NO. 1, SPRING 1994 1–102
NO. 2, SUMMER 1994 103–218
NO. 3, FALL 1994 219–310
NO. 4, WINTER 1994 311–392

A

American Management Association (AMA), 297–298

Apana, R., "Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367

Articles: "Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367; "A Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses," 313–329; "Differences in Familial Influence Among Women-Owned Businesses," 273–286; "Family Business and Multiple Levels of Conflict," 331–348; "Financial and Efficiency Differences in Family-Owned and Non-Family-Owned Nursing Homes: An Oregon Study," 73–86; "Healthy Family Functioning: Conceptual and Research Developments," 175–198; "The Impact of Timing and Mode of Entry on Successor Development and Successful Succession," 221–236; "Influence of Family Relationships on Succession Planning and Training: The Importance of Mediating Factors," 39–59; "IRS Estate Freeze Rules: Implications for Family Business Succession Planning," 67–71; "Is Strategy Different for the Family-Owned Business?" 159–174; "A Neglected Factor Explaining Family Business Success: Human Resource Practices," 251–262; "Organizational Buying Behavior of the Family Firm," 263–272; "Ownership Structure: Strategic Posture, and Firm Growth: An Empirical Examination," 237–249; "Potential Contributions of Organizational Behavior to the Study of Family-Owned Businesses," 109–131; "Profiling Preference for Employment in Family-Owned Firms," 287–296; "Small Business Succession: The Educational Potential," 369–376; "Succession in Family Business: A Review of the Research," 133–157; "Theoretical Foundations for Family-Owned Business: A Conceptual and Research-Based Paradigm," 3–27; "Unraveling Communications Among Family Members," 29–37

Astrachan, J. H., "Influence of Family Relationships on Succession Planning and Training: The Importance of Mediating Factors," 39–59; "A Neglected Factor Explaining Family Business Success: Human Resource Practices," 251–262

B

Barnes, L. B., "Transferring Power in the Family Business," 377–392

Barton, S. L., "Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367

Beckhard, R., interviewed, 199–205

Book Reviews: "The Classic Family Business Library," 207–217; Getting to Win-Win in Family Business, 309–310; Undue Influence: The Epic Battle for the Johnson & Johnson Fortune, 99–102

Bounded rationality (satisficing) model, 351

Brown, B. M., "A Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses," 313–329

Business strategy. See Strategic management; Strategy formulation; Strategy implementation

C

Capital structure decision making: and control needs, 358–359; and debt financing attitude, 361–362; and decision-making paradigm, 351–353; and experience, 360–361; and external conditions, 362–363; and finance paradigm, 350;

Capital structure decision making (continued) and financial/market variables, 363–364; and integrated model, 357–358; and owner-managers, 353–356; and partnerships, 363; and personal net worth, 361; and personal variables, 358–362; puzzle of, 350; and risk propensity, 359–360; and situational variables, 362–363; and social norms, 261; and strategy paradigm, 350, 353–356; and theory of reasoned action, 351, 356–357

"Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367

Career development: defined, 115; and family member socialization, 115–116; and gender issues, 153; matrix structure of, 122; and mentoring, 148; of successor, 140–141, 148. See also Career(s); Preference, family business career

Career(s): development theory of, 115–116; in family business, 287–288; family interest in, 277, 285; life cycle of, and succession planning, 224–225, 232; preference, in family business (study), 288–295; and vocational choice, 288. See also Career development; Preference, family business career

Cargill, J. R., interviewed, 297–307

Carlock, R. S., "A Classroom Discussion with James R. Cargill," 297–309

Change: and conflict resolution, 342; continuous/discontinuous, 333; emotions and, 125; entrepreneur's resistance to, 139, 145; and family business, 61; and family business centers, 91; and family business conflict, 333–334, 341–342; and family offices, 269; first-/second-order, 333; organizational development theories of, 124–125; and organizational vision, 313; processes stimulating, 342–343; and punctuated equilibrium, 341–342; technological, and family intensity, 284; theory and organizational environment, 333–334. See also Transition, family business

Chief executive officers (CEOs). See Entrepreneurs; Owner-managers

Circumplex Model of Family Relationships, 42

"Classic Family Business Library, The," 207–217

Classics: "Transferring Power in the Family Business," 377–392

"Classroom Discussion with James R. Cargill, A," 297–309

Communication: ambiguity in, 117; cross-role, 32, 34; enhancing, 35–36; errors, 34–35; family, 29–36, 117, 189–190; organizational behavior theory and, 116–117; and resistance to change, 147; role-based perspective of, 30–36. See also Organizational communications; Role-based communications

"Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses, A," 313–329

Competitiveness: and cultural patterns, 122; and empowerment, 118; and family business, 121, 252–253; and family connections/relationships, 121; and human resource practices, 253, 260; and strategic research, 240; and sustainable competitive advantage, 164

Complementary role communications, 31–32

Conflict: and creativity, 120; in families, 121–122; intergroup, 120–121; organizational, 117; organizational behavior theories of, 117–121; and performance, 120. See also Conflict, family business; Conflict resolution/management

Conflict, family business: and change processes, 342–343; and creative/definition phase, 338–339; and critical events, 338, 342; cultural context of, 331; and disequilibrium, 336; and early growth phase, 340; and enterprising phase, 339; and external/internal constituents, 331–332; and family life cycle, 336; level 1, 334, 343–344; level 2, 335, 344; level 3, 335, 344–345; life cycle approach to, 336–341; vs. nonfamily business conflict, 117–118; vs. nonfamily firm, 117–118; and organizational change, 333–334, 341–342; and organizational stage models, 336; and plateau/maturity phase, 341; resolution process, 341–345; sources of, 334–335; and stabilization phase, 339–340; and subsystem theory, 144; and sustaining growth phase, 340–341; types of, 331. See also Conflict; Conflict resolution/management

Conflict resolution/management: and change process, 342; and level 1 conflict, 343–344; and level 2 conflict, 344; and level 3 conflict, 344–345; and mediation, 118; theory and family firms, 117–118. See also Conflict; Conflict, family business; Mediation
Consultants: and family firm change, 125; handbook for, 309–310; interventions of, with family firms, 111; multidisciplinary, 124. See also Organizational development interventions
Continuity planning: and commitment to continuity, 161, 171; founders' role in, 140; and succession, 149–150. See also Succession planning; Transition, family business
Control: and capital structure decision making, 358–359; by owner-managers, 316. See also Power
Covin, T. J., "Profiling Preference for Employment in Family-Owned Firms," 287–296
Cross-role communications, 32, 34

D

Daily, C. M., "Ownership Structure: Strategic Posture, and Firm Growth: An Empirical Examination," 237– 249
Danco, L. A., interviewed, 199–205
Daughters. See Successors: daughters as; Women
Decision-making paradigm: and bounded rationality model, 351; and capital structure decision making, 351–353; and comprehensiveness/intuition/rationality, 352–353; individual approach to, 352; and manager influence, 352; and rational normative model, 351; and strategic choice model, 352–353
"Differences in Familial Influence Among Women-Owned Businesses," 273–286
Dyer, W. G., Jr., "Potential Contributions of Organizational Behavior to the Study of Family-Owned Businesses," 109–131
Dynamics, family: and business planning model, 165–166; and career motivation, 115; impact of, on business, 39; impact of, on succession, 152–153; and leadership development, 116; and organizational behavior, 54–55; and organizational culture, 111; and succession planning, 41. See also Family

E

Education: executive, 324; succession planning, 372–374; technical skills, 315. See also Learning; Training
Employees: empowerment of, 118; family firm perspective of, 381
Employment preference, in family firms (study), 288–295
Empowerment. See Power
Entrepreneurial firms, 239. See also Family business
Entrepreneurs: and business strategy, 159–160; childhood issues of, 138; corporeuthanasia by, 138; defined, 239; and denial, 144–145; life span of, 133; narcissism of, 204–205; power needs of, 113, 137–138; psychodynamic aspects of, 137–138; resistance to change of, 139, 146–147; retirement styles of, 139; and succession planning, 62, 137–139; women, and familial influence (study), 277–285. See also Entrepreneurial firm; Entrepreneurship; Founders; Leaders; Owner-managers
Entrepreneurship: complexity of, 273; and family influences, 276–279; and gender issues, 273–274; and growth, 281–282; theory, 273–274. See also Entrepreneurial firm; Entrepreneurs
Entry timing, and succession planning, 223–230
Equity theory, 114
Estate freezes: abuses of, 63; and family business succession, 62–64; reverse, 69; tax regulation about, 63–69; by will, 69
Estate planning: IRS policies on, 63–70; and succession planning, 150. See also Succession planning
Ethnicity: and family functioning, 176, 186; and succession, 151
Evans, R. E., "Family Business and Multiple Levels of Conflict," 331–348; "The Impact of Timing and Mode of Entry on Successor Development and Successful Succession," 221–236
Expectancy theory, 114–115

F

Family: adaptability, 188; assessing, functioning, 179–180; belief systems, 190–192; boundaries, 189; business-personal roles in, 30–33; business stressors on, 178–179, 252; careerism, 277, 285; circumplex model of, 42; clinical views of, 181–183; cohesion/adaptability, 42, 44–46, 55, 188–189; collaborative, 41; commitment, 42–43, 276; communication, 29–36, 189–190; competitive value of, 121; conflict, 120, 331–332, 334–338; diversity, 186–187; flexibility, 42; functional vs. dysfunctional, 179–180, 182–183, 187–194; and gender issues, 186; goals and organizational buying behavior, 264; influences on succession, 40, 44–48; investors, 276–277; life-cycle issues/stages, 179, 186–187, 190–191, 227, 232, 336–341; members, 115–116, 222–223; mission, 149; needs and family offices (study), 265–271; normal, 175–176; normative vs. nonnormative stressors of, 179; organizational patterns of, 188–189; overlap of, with business, 251–252, 264–265; processes, 178–183; redefining, 175–176; relationships, 41–42; research on, 184, 187, 192; resources/workplace impacts on, 180–181; as security blanket, 276; sibling rivalry in, 41; socialization of, 115–116; structural nature, 42, 176, 184–186; and succession planning/training (study), 44–56; systems view of, 40; and women entrepreneurs (study), 277–285. See also Dynamics, family; Intensity, family; Life cycle, family; Normality, family

Family business: capital nonintensiveness of, 162–163, 171; capital structure decision making in, 349–364; and career development/careers, 115–116, 277, 285, 287; and change, 61, 124–125; classic works on, 207–217; and communications theory, 116–117; and competitive advantage, 121, 252; and company situation analysis, 162–164; comparative study of, 126; conceptual/research-based model of, 3–24; and conflict management, 117–118; criteria for, 254; cultural patterns/context of, 122, 331; customer service in, 121; definition of, 39, 238, 288; developing theories about, 125–126; efficiency/performance of, vs. non-family business (study), 75–85; employment preference in (study), 288–295; family commitment to, 42–43, 45–46, 55; and family dynamics, 165–166, 171; and family intensity, 274–279; and family investors, 276–277, 284; and family offices (study), 265–271; and family relations/succession planning (study), 44–56; and family stress, 178–179; generation model of, 154–165; global issues about, 4–7, 160, 166–168, 171; government impact on, 62; and group analysis/theory, 118–121; growth, and ownership structure/ strategic posture (study), 240–247; growth of, 111, 276, 281–282, 317, 382–389; human resource practices in (study), 253–261; and individual/interpersonal levels of analysis, 112–118; and industry analysis/structure, 162; internationalization of, 166–168; inward orientation of, 160, 171; and job creation, 369; leaders, 316–317; and leadership style, 113–114, 165; life cycle of, 336–341, 382–387; and litigation, 100–101; long-term view of, 163, 171; and loyalty, 164, 171, 269, 287; management practices in, 316, 327; and markets, 166–168, 171, 263; and motivation theory, 114–115; and needs-based segmentation, 265, 270; and nepotism, 110; and network building, 326; vs. nonfamily business, 73, 82–84, 251, 263–264, 287, 295, 316–317; nonrational/particularlist aspect of, 110; and organization structure/ design/capability, 121–122, 252; and organizational behavior/culture, 110–111, 122; organizational buying behavior (study), 265–271; and organizational level of analysis, 121–123; ownership structure of, 154–165, 237–239; and personal characteristics theory, 112–113; and power/influence, 118; prevalence of, 274, 369; professionalization of, 246–247, 260, 276, 378–380; as relationship-centered, 316–317; and role ambiguity/conflict, 117; sibling involvement in, 222–223; strategic formulation/ implementation by, 7–17, 121, 159–171, 240; succession planning barriers in (study), 370–375; successor development in (study), 318–327; survival/life span of, 40–41, 43, 61, 133, 147–148, 252, 259–260, 276, 284, 350, 369–370; and systems thinking, 122–123; unique character of, 251–252, 316–317; and women entrepreneurs (study), 277–285; writers on (interviewed), 199–205. See also Conflict, family business; Family; Offices, family business; Ownership structure; Preference, family business career; Research/theory, family business; Strategy research, family business; Transition, family business

"Family Business and Multiple Levels of Conflict," 331–348
Family business centers. See Northeastern University Center for Family Business
"Family Business Centers: An Interview with Paul Karofsky," 87–97
Family Business Review, 111
Family Firm Institute, 111
Family firms. See Family business
Family systems/process theory: assessment models of, 184, 187–188; challenges of, research, 184; and family/business life cycle, 179, 186–187, 190–191, 227, 232, 336–341, 382–387; and family challenge framework, 184; and family normality, 178; and healthy family functioning, 187–194; and multigenerational issues, 192; and organizational culture, 316; quantitative/qualitative methodologies of, 184
Family-owned business. See Family business
Feature: "A Classroom Discussion with James R. Cargill," 297–309; "Family Business Centers: An Interview with Paul Karofsky," 87–97; "Reflections on the Family Business Literature: Pioneers Look to the Past and the Future," 199–205
Fiegener, M. K., "A Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses," 313–329
File, K. M., "A Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses," 313–329; "Organizational Buying Behavior of the Family Firm," 263–272
Finance paradigm, 350
"Financial and Efficiency Differences in Family-Owned and Non-Family-Owned Nursing Homes: An Oregon Study," 73–86
Foss, H. B., "IRS Estate Freeze Rules: Implications for Family Business Succession Planning," 67–71
Founders: death and company transition, 382, 389–390; and firm growth, 246; and sibling entry planning, 222–223, 232. See also Entrepreneurs; Owner-managers
Frishkoff, P. A., "The Classic Family Business Library," 207–217

G

Gender: and career development, 153; and entrepreneurship, 273–274; issues in family, 186; and succession planning, 153. See also Women
Gersick, K. E., "Handbook on Family Business Research, 1969–1994"; "Reflections on the Family Business Literature: Pioneers Look to the Past and the Future," 199–205
Getting to Win-Win in Family Business, reviewed, 309–310
Gift-of-personal-use property, 68
Government, and family business, 62
Grantor-retained annuity trust (GRAT), 68
Grantor-retained unitrust (GRUT), 68
Group(s): conflict theory, 120; developmental stages of, 119; formation theory, 119; process theory, 119–120
Gundry, L. K., "Differences in Familial Influence Among Women-Owned Businesses," 273–286

H

Handbook of Family Business Research, origins/goals of, 103–105
Handler, W. C., "Succession in Family Business: A Review of the Research," 133–157
Harris, D., "Is Strategy Different for the Family-Owned Business?" 159–174
Harvey, M., "Family Business and Multiple Levels of Conflict," 331–348; "The Impact of Timing and Mode of Entry on Successor Development and Successful Succession," 221–236
"Healthy Family Functioning: Conceptual and Research Developments," 175–198
Heirs. See Successors

Hershon, S. A., "Transferring Power in the Family Business," 377–392
Human resource management (HRM): and competitive advantage, 253, 260; and firm survival, 259–260; practices and family firms (study), 253–261; research, 252–253; and succession planning, 260

I

"Impact of Timing and Mode of Entry on Successor Development and Successful Succession, The," 221–236
Industry analysis, 162
"Influence of Family Relationships on Succession Planning and Training: The Importance of Mediating Factors," 39–59
Institute for Family Business, University of St. Thomas, 298
Intensity, family: and business/family involvement, 282–284; and business commitment, 277; defined, 274–275; and entrepreneurial expansion/planning, 281–282, 284–285; and family careerism, 277, 285; and family investment, 276–277, 284; hypotheses about, 277–279; impact of, 275–276; and ownership, 285; and sales, 284–285; and technological change, 284; variations in, 275; and women entrepreneurs (study), 277–285. See also Dynamics, family; Family
Internal Revenue Service (IRS): and estate freeze abuses, 63; policy on ownership transfer, 63–70. See also Tax regulations
Internationalization/globalization: expansion concerns during, 167; family business lack of, 160, 166–168, 171; and market entry strategy, 167–168; and multinational strategy coordination, 168; research on, 166–167
Introduction: "Handbook on Family Business Research, 1969–1994"
IRS codes, 63–68
"IRS Estate Freeze Rules: Implications for Family Business Succession Planning," 67–71
"Is Strategy Different for the Family-Owned Business?" 159–174

J

Johnson & Johnson, financial battle regarding, 99–100

K

Karofsky, P., interviewed, 87–97
Kaye, K., review by, 309–310
Kleinsorge, I. K., "Financial and Efficiency Differences in Family-Owned and Non-Family-Owned Nursing Homes: An Oregon Study," 73–86
Kolenko, T. A., "A Neglected Factor Explaining Family Business Success: Human Resource Practices," 251–262
Kuratko, D. F., "IRS Estate Freeze Rules: Implications for Family Business Succession Planning," 67–71

L

Lansberg, I., "Influence of Family Relationships on Succession Planning and Training: The Importance of Mediating Factors," 39–59
Latin America, succession studies in, 151–152
Lawyers, and family business, 101–102. See also Litigation
Le Van, G., Getting to Win-Win in Family Business, reviewed, 309–310
Leaders: development of (study) 318–327; family firm, 316–317; founding, 316; learning experience of, 315; shortage of, 314; and successor development, 316, 320. See also Entrepreneurs; Founders; Leadership; Managers; Owner-managers
Leadership: development, 115–116; and extended family, 222; and family dynamics, 116; of modest-sized firms, 246; next-generation, development, 142; and organizational behavior theory, 112–114; and people vs. work orientation, 113; personalization of, 326; psychodynamic aspects of, 137–138; research on, 314; shortage of, 313–314; style, 113–114, 165; training, 315–316,

324; transition, and organizational vision, 313. See also Leaders
Learning: by executives, 315, 324; relationship-centered, 315–316, 323–324; task-centered, 315, 319–320. See also Education; Training
Levinson, H., interviewed, 199–205
Life cycle, family: and belief systems, 190–191; challenges in, 186–187; and multigenerational family system, 179; and organizational transition, 336–341, 382–387; and stressors, 179. See also Family
Litigation: cost-effectiveness of, 100–102; as epic battle, 100; Johnson & Johnson's, 99–100; and justice, 100; and revenge, 102. See also Lawyers
Lundberg, C. C., "Unraveling Communications Among Family Members," 29–37

M

Managers: development of (study), 318–327; of family business offices, 269; learning experience of, 315. See also Leaders
Mandelbaum, L., "Small Business Succession: The Educational Potential," 369–376
Margolick, D., Undue Influence: The Epic Battle for the Johnson & Johnson Fortune, reviewed, 99–102
Marketing: management and family firms (study), 265–271; management, 263, 270; and needs-based segmentation, 265; and organizational buying behavior, 263–264; and purchasing, 264. See also Markets; Organizational buying behavior
Markets: and capital structure decision making, 363; coordination of multinational, 168; and entry strategy, 167–168; family firm importance in, 263; global, and family firms, 160, 166–168, 171; penetration of, 167. See also Marketing; Organizational buying behavior
Martinez, J. I., "Is Strategy Different for the Family-Owned Business?" 159–174
Matthews, C. H., "Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367
Mediation: in family firms, 118; and organizational transition, 390. See also Conflict resolution/management
Mentoring, in family firms, 148, 316, 320, 323–324
Mills, B., "Family Business Centers: An Interview with Paul Karofsky," 87–97
Mission, 149, 160–161. See also Vision
Motivation, and equity/expectancy theories, 144–115

N

National Foundation for Women Business Owners, 279
Needs-based segmentation, 265, 268–270
"Neglected Factor Explaining Family Business Success: Human Resource Practices, A," 251–262
Non-family business: conflict in, 117–118; efficiency of (study), 75–85; and interpersonal relationships, 316, 324; management practices in, 316, 327; successor development in (study), 318–327. See also Small business
Normality, family: as asymptomatic, 177; as average, 177; biopsychosocial approach to, 178; defined, 176; developmental/life-cycle approach to, 179; and family processes, 178–181; and individual dysfunction, 177; as optimal, 177–178; and pathologizing errors, 178, 181–182; perspectives on, 176–181; systems approach to, 178. See also Family
North American Heating and Air Conditioning Wholesalers Association (NHAW), firm growth and ownership structure/strategic posture (study), 241–247
Northeastern University Center for Family Business: advisory board of, 92; and change, 91; core program of, 88; financial management of, 92; Leadership Development Forum of, 88–89; marketing approaches by, 92–94, 97; meetings of, 88–89; membership of, 89, 91–95; newsletter of, 94; origins of, 87; other services of, 92; programs of, 87–88; research by, 96; Select Series Seminars of, 90; and sponsors, 89–90, 92; university support of, 95–96

Nursing homes: costs of, 74, 84; family vs. non-family (study), 75–85; and Medicaid, 74; nonprofit vs. for-profit, 74

O

Offices, family business: and adapting to change, 269; and family management/portfolio growth, 269; and family objectives (study), 265–271; formation of, 268–269; and heir development, 269; and investment objectives, 269–270; managers of, 269; needs-based segmentation of, 268–270; and succession planning, 268
Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987, 63
Oregon, nursing homes in (study), 75–85
Organizational behavior: defined, 109; and family business, 110–111; and family firm study, 111–123; and organizational culture, 316; and organizational efficiency, 110; practitioners, 109–110. See also Organizational behavior theories
Organizational behavior theories: and career development, 115–116; and communications, 116–117; and comparative study of family firms, 126; and conflict management, 117–118; developing, 125–126; and group level of analysis, 118–121; and group process, 119–120; and individual level of analysis, 112–116; and intergroup conflict, 120; and interpersonal level of analysis, 116–118; and motivation, 114–115; and organizational culture, 122; and organizational level of analysis, 121–123; and organizational structure/design, 121–122; and personal characteristics/leadership style, 112–114; and power/influence, 118; and role ambiguity/conflict, 117; and strategic planning, 121; and systems thinking, 122–123. See also Organizational behavior
Organizational buying behavior: defined, 264; and family goals, 264; and family business theory, 264, 270; and family firms (study), 265–271; and needs-based segmentation, 265. See also Marketing; Markets
"Organizational Buying Behavior of the Family Firm," 263–272
Organizational culture: and family business, 122, 331; and family dy-namics, 11; and organizational behavior, 122, 316
Organizational development (OD), interventions, 123–125
Organizational life cycle: and conflict, 336–341; creative/definition phase of, 338–339; early growth phase of, 340; enterprising phase of, 339; and family life cycle, 336; and organizational transition, 382–387; plateau/maturity phase of, 341; stabilization phase of, 339–340; sustaining growth phase of, 340–341
Organizations: capability of, 252; competitive advantage of, 252–253; and family communications, 30; growth/transitions of, 317, 382–389; small vs. large, 317; stage theories of, 317, 336; structure/design theory of, 122; systems approach to, 122–123. See also Organizational behavior; Organizational behavior theories; Organizational buying behavior; Organizational culture; Organizational development (OD); Organizational life cycle
Owner-managers: and capital structure decision making, 353–356; and control, 316; death of, 41; firms of, 239; and succession planning, 40–41, 43, 61–62; and successor relationship, 43–44, 47–48; and successor training, 317. See also Entrepreneurs; Leaders
Ownership structure: entrepreneurial, 239, 242; owner/manager, 239, 242; and partnerships, 363; professionally managed, 239, 242; and strategic posture, 240–241, 246–247; and strategic posture/firm growth (study), 240–247; by women, and family intensity (study), 277–285
"Ownership Structure: Strategic Posture, and Firm Growth: An Empirical Examination," 237–249

P

Paradigm flexibility, 161
Performance: and company situation analysis, 162–164; components of, 161; and conflict, 120; industry analysis of, 162; and strategy choice, 156

"Potential Contributions of Organizational Behavior to the Study of Family-Owned Businesses," 109–131
Power: and empowerment, 118; and entrepreneurs/owners, 137–138, 316; need for, 112–113, 137; organizational, bases, 118; personal, 113; social, 113; strategies, 118; theories of, 118. See also Control
Preference, family business career: and attitudes toward family businesses, 290, 294; factors affecting (study), 288–295; and job characteristic predictors, 291, 294; and life history predictors, 290–291, 294; research on, 287–288; and undergraduate/graduate students, 292–295; and vocational choice, 288. See also Career development; Career(s)
Prince, R. A., "A Comparison of Successor Development in Family and Nonfamily Businesses," 313–329; "Organizational Buying Behavior of the Family Firm," 263–272
Professionally managed firms, 239. See also Family business: professionalization of
"Profiling Preference for Employment in Family-Owned Firms," 287–296

R

Rankin, M. J., "Organizational Buying Behavior of the Family Firm," 263–272
Rational normative (optimizing) model, 351
"Reflections on the Family Business Literature: Pioneers Look to the Past and the Future," 199–205
Research/theory, family business: and careers, 287–288; conceptual unity in, 4–7; on entrepreneurship, 273–274; and family firm characteristics, 251–252; importance of, 237; and organizational behavior, 111–123; and organizational buying behavior, 264–265; and strategic posture, 238; and successor development, 314; typology of, 5–7. See also Strategy research, family business
Retirement: styles, 139; and succession, 204
Risk: and capital structure decision making, 359–360; and successor development, 324, 326
Role transition theory, 135
Role-based communications: complementary, 31–32; cross, 32, 34; errors in, 34–35; and family roles, 30–31
Role(s): behavior, 135; characteristics of, 30–31; conflict/ambiguity about, 35, 117; dynamic model of, 33–34; and emotions, 31–33; expectations of, 31–32; and family communication, 30–33; inappropriate, 35; and job performance, 117; lock, 35; misspecification, 35; and multiple constituencies, 117; prepotency, 35; salience, 32–33; set, 136; and succession issues, 135–136

S

Siblings: career life cycle of, 224–225, 232; and entry timing decision process, 232–233; involvement of, in family business, 222–223; rivalry of, 41, 370; and succession planning, 223–233, 370
Small business: and job creation, 369; succession planning barriers in (study), 370–375. See also Family business; Nonfamily business
"Small Business Succession: The Educational Potential," 369–376
Sons. See Successors: sons as
Strategic choice model, 352–356
Strategic intent, 161
Strategic management: concepts for family business, 7–17; typology of, 3, 4. See also Strategic planning; Strategy research, family business
Strategic planning: and family firms, 121; and family intensity, 282, 284–285; and family mission, 149; and organizational behavior theory, 121; and paradigm flexibility, 161; and strategic intent, 161; and succession planning, 149. See also Strategic management
Strategic posture: assessment variables of, 242–243; defined, 239; and firm types, 240; and ownership posture, 240–241, 246–247; and ownership structure/firm growth (study), 240–247; and research, 239–240
Strategic windows, 224–230
Strategy formulation: and company situation analysis, 162–164; entrepreneur's influence on, 159–160; and family

Strategy formulation (continued)
business development model, 165; and implementation, 168–170; and industry analysis, 162; and integration/coordination mechanisms, 169; international/global, 166–168; and mission, 160–161; and resource allocation, 169; and strategic choice, 164–166; and structure-follows-strategy principle, 168–169; tasks for family business, 165. See also Strategy research, family business; Strategy theory
Strategy paradigm: and capital structure decision making, 350, 353–356; and decision theory, 353; and managerial characteristics, 353; shortcoming of, 357; and strategic choice model, 353–356. See also Strategy theory
Strategy research, family business: business studies in, 17–19; conceptual studies in, 7–17; and content issues, 239; potential studies in, 19–24; questions for content component, 21–24; questions for environmental, 20–21; questions for historical, 20; questions for organizational, 21; questions for theoretical, 19–20; and strategy selection, 159–160. See also Research/theory, family business; Strategy formulation; Strategy theory
Strategy theory: and evolutionary strategy development, 164; and family business development model, 165; and firm financing decisions, 350; and strategy selection, 159–160; types of, 239. See also Decision-making paradigm; Strategy paradigm
Students, and family business careers, 292–295
Succession: biological inevitability of, 314; and business/family/board conditions, 149; and career development, 140–141, 148; centrality of, 133; conspiracy, 133; and daughters, 140, 142–143, 204; defined, 134; effective, 147–151, 153; and estate freezes, 62–64; and ethnicity, 151; in Europe, 152; and family dynamics, 152–153; and family firm definition, 133; family influences on, 40, 44–48; and father-son relationship, 135, 140, 143–144; future re-search on, 151–153; importance of, 61–62; and inadequate successor types, 139; in Latin America, 151–152; and leadership development, 142; and legal problems, 62; life-cycle approach to, 135, 222–233; as long-term process, 314; and loss/continuity, 137; multiple levels of analysis of, 143–147; and next-generation, 140–143; outcomes, 151; and owner-managers, 43–44, 47–48, 317; paralysis, 223; and primogeniture, 143; as process, 134–137; and resistance to change, 139, 145; research on, 133–153, 221, 314; and respect, 149–150; and retirement, 139, 204; as role adjustment process, 136; and sibling relationships, 143; social importance of, 370; stage model of, 135; and stakeholders, 134, 144; and systems theory, 144; and tax regulations, 62–63; and transition theory, 135; undesirable outcomes for, 222–223. See also Succession planning; Successor development; Successors; Transition, family business
"Succession in Family Business: A Review of the Research," 133–157
Succession planning: and family life cycle, 227, 232; and annuities/trusts, 68–69; assistance, 372–374; barriers to (study), 370–375; broadness of, and business life cycle, 227, 232; and buy-sell agreements, 68; and career life cycle, 224–225, 232; and collaborative family, 41; delayed, 145; education, 372–374; and entry timing, 223–233; entrepreneur's role in, 137–139, 370; and estate planning, 69, 150; and family cohesion/adaptability, 42, 44–46, 55; and family commitment, 46–47, 55; and family dynamics, 41; and family life cycle, 227; and family member criteria, 222–223; and family offices, 268; family relationship influences on (study), 44–56; and firm survival, 40–41, 61–62; and gender issues, 153; and gift-of-personal-use property, 68; government impact on, 62; and heir's career development, 148; and human resource management practices, 260; inadequacy of, 313–314; and IRS transfer-of-ownership policies, 63–70; lack of/resistance to, 40–41, 43, 61–62, 133, 137–139, 145–147, 370; and mentoring, 148; and owner-managers, 40–41, 43, 47–48, 61–62, 137–139, 317; and psychosocial issues, 370, 372; research, 221; resources for, 62; and reverse freeze, 69; and siblings, 41, 223–233; and social policies, 374–375; and strategic/continuity planning, 149; and strategic windows, 224–231; and succession plan, 370–371; tax laws affecting, 63–70; and time, 371; and unplanned nonincremental events, 229; vagueness of, 41. See also Succession; Successor development; Transition, family business

Successor development: in family vs. nonfamily businesses (study), 318–327; future research on, 325–327; and leader involvement, 316, 320, 323, 327; and organizational size, 317–318, 320, 324–325; and owner-managers, 317; and relationship-centered experiences, 315–316, 323–324; research on, 314; riskiness of, 324, 326; and task-centered experiences, 315, 319–320; threatening nature of, 326. See also Succession planning; Successors
Successors: career development of, 140–141, 148; daughters as, 140, 142–143; inadequate, 139; sons as, 135, 140, 143–144, 151–152; training of, 40–41, 317; view of succession by, 140–143. See also Successor development
Sustainable competitive advantage, 164;
Systems theory: and family firms, 122–123; and family processes, 178; and succession, 144. See also Family systems/process theory

T

Tax regulations: and buy-sell option agreements, 66–67; and estate freezes, 63–69; and lapsing rights/restrictions, 67; and suc-cession, 63–70; and transfers of interests, 64–65. See also Internal Revenue Service (IRS); IRS codes
"Theoretical Foundations for Family-Owned Business: A Conceptual and Research-Based Paradigm," 3–27
Theory of reasoned action (TRA): appropriateness/strength of, 357; and capital structure decision making, 351, 356–357; and computer usage, 357; and decision-making process, 356; development/application of, 356
Thompson, S. S., "Ownership Structure: Strategic Posture, and Firm Growth: An Empirical Examination," 237–249
Training: leadership, 315–316, 324; succession (study), 44–56; successor, 40–41, 317. See also Education; Learning
"Transferring Power in the Family Business," 377–392
Transition, family business: and "company will live" assumption, 389–390; and corporate growth, 380, 382–383; and dialogue mechanisms, 391; dual/singular nature of, 382–389; employee perspective on, 381; family manager perspective on, 380–381; and family/organizational transitions, 382–389; family perspective on, 381; and founder's death, 382; and future role building, 391; insider vs. outsider perspectives on, 380–382; managing, 389–391; and mediation vs. confrontation, 390; and organizational life cycle, 382–387; outsider perspective on, 381–382; problems of, 377–378; and professional vs. family management, 378–380. See also Change; Succession; Succession planning

U

Undue Influence: The Epic Battle for the Johnson & Johnson Fortune, reviewed, 99–102
University of St. Thomas (Minn.), 298
"Unraveling Communications Among Family Members," 29–37

V

VanAlst, L. L., "IRS Estate Freeze Rules: Implications for Family Business Succession Planning," 67–71
Vasudevan, D. P., "Capital Structure Decision Making in Privately Held Firms: Beyond the Finance Paradigm," 349–367
Vision, 313. See also Mission

W

Walsh, F., "Healthy Family Functioning: Conceptual and Research Developments," 175–198
Ward, J. L., "Is Strategy Different for the Family-Owned Business?" 159–174
Welsch, H. P., "Differences in Familial Influence Among Women-Owned Businesses," 273–286
Women: entrepreneurs and familial influence (study), 277–285; in family business, 274; and family intensity, 277–279, 284; and family security, 276; as owners, 285; as stakeholders, 276. See also Gender
Wortman, M. S., Jr., "Theoretical Foundations for Family-Owned Business: A Conceptual and Research-Based Paradigm," 3–27